KITE + SURF

GOTLAND
KITE + SURF

ART DIRECTION / SOCIAL MEDIA / ILLUSTRATION / WEB DESIGN

SWEDEN

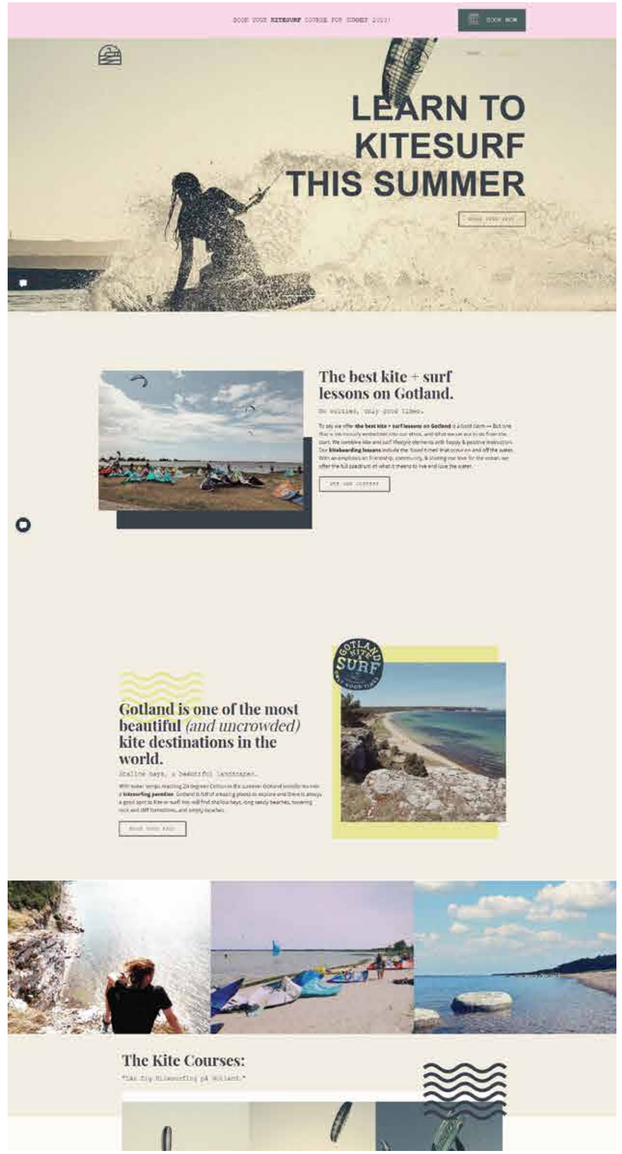

A local surf identity built around the thing Gotland has no shortage of: wind.

I developed a relaxed visual system spanning identity, signage, digital content and campaign design, giving the school a character that feels unmistakably connected to the island without falling into the usual surf-brand clichés.

STELLER EQUIPMENT

SWEDEN

Steller needed a visual language that felt as technical as the product, without losing the romance of being in the mountains.

I developed an editorial system that shifts between adrenaline and escape: saturated action photography, quieter monochrome landscapes, technical product information and deliberately disruptive typography.

The result was a flexible direction that could move from campaigns to Steller's in-house magazine without losing its identity.

NEDBANK

ART DIRECTION / ILLUSTRATION / LAYOUT / MOTION

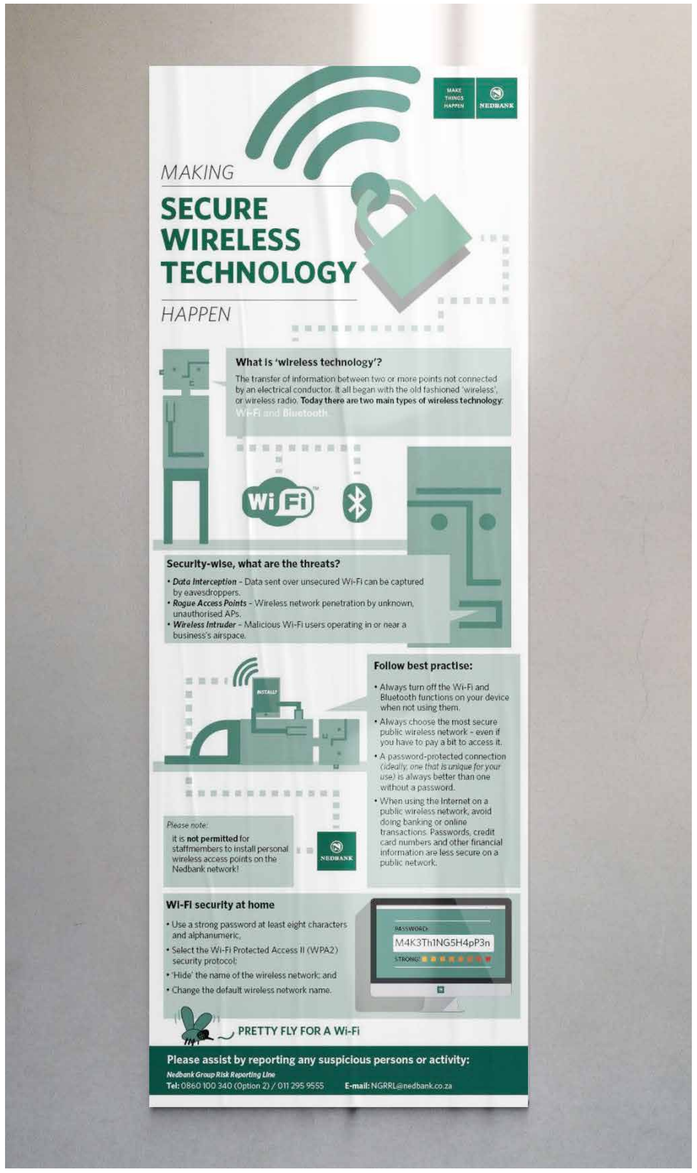

SOUTH AFRICA / NAMIBIA

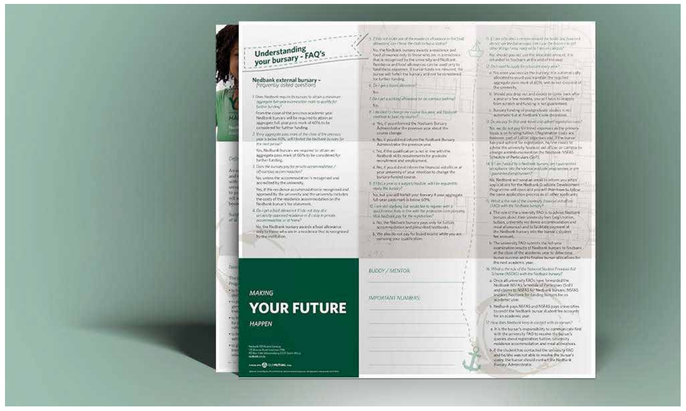

Working within one of Africa's largest banking groups meant designing inside a highly controlled brand system, while still finding room for ideas.

As part of a small internal communications team, I worked across editorial, illustration, motion and campaign design, translating complex information into clear, engaging communication for employees across South Africa and Namibia.

VALLEY MOUNTAIN HOMES

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENTS,
THE SMART WAY.

VALLEY MOUNTAIN HOMES

ART DIRECTION / BRANDING / SOCIAL MEDIA / LOGO / BRAND DIRECTION

CANADA

A construction brand aimed at a younger generation of homeowners needed to feel approachable without looking lightweight.

I created an identity that balances the confidence of a traditional property brand with a more contemporary, playful visual language. Working closely with the founder, I developed the logo, graphic system and communications around one simple proposition: sustainable development, the smart way.

I conceptualised, and created the social media campaign with the question, what does Valley mountain homes want to be known for? Besides being a sustainable construction and development company they also had strong community values and this was implemented into the social media content.

Every last post of the month featured a local business, or highlighted a community project nearby.

We also implimented inspiring quotes, highlited local crafts people, and shared our own behind the scenes content.

WANDERING SOUL + SUPRALIMINAL CLOTHING

ART DIRECTION / APPAREL DESIGN / PHOTOGRAPHY / ILLUSTRATION / SOCIAL MEDIA

Sweden

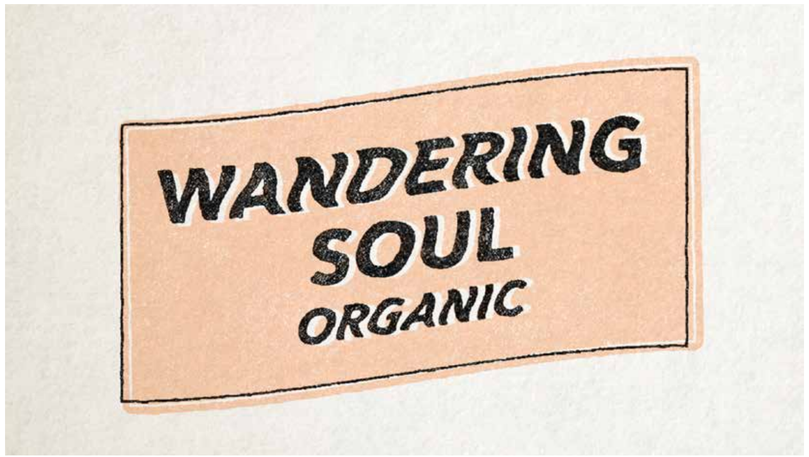

An ethical clothing project built around conscious consumption, organic materials and a fully traceable supply chain.

Rather than leaning into the usual earnest visual language of sustainable fashion, I created something lighter and more optimistic, part DIY print culture, part 1970s flower power. Hand-drawn illustration, screen-print textures and gentle weathering gave the brand an imperfect, human quality.

ARRCC

ART DIRECTION / BRANDING / EDITORIAL / LOGO / BRAND DIRECTION

South Africa

Antoni Associates was evolving into ARRCC, and the new name needed an identity to match. Working alongside Stefan Antoni Architects and the Antoni Associates team, I helped translate that shift into a sharper, more contemporary visual system — spanning identity, editorial design and brand applications.

Squint your eyes.

When new Swedish climate policy made the news, I went from headline to finished creative response in under an hour — concept, image generation, typography and final artwork.

The speed matters, but tconcept remains king. Combining strong concepts with AI is what seperates the slop from the gems..

Generative AI

ART DIRECTION / CONCEPT /AI

SWEDEN

I use AI as an extension of the creative process, not a replacement for it. It lets me move rapidly from an idea to something tangible enough to interrogate, refine and present.

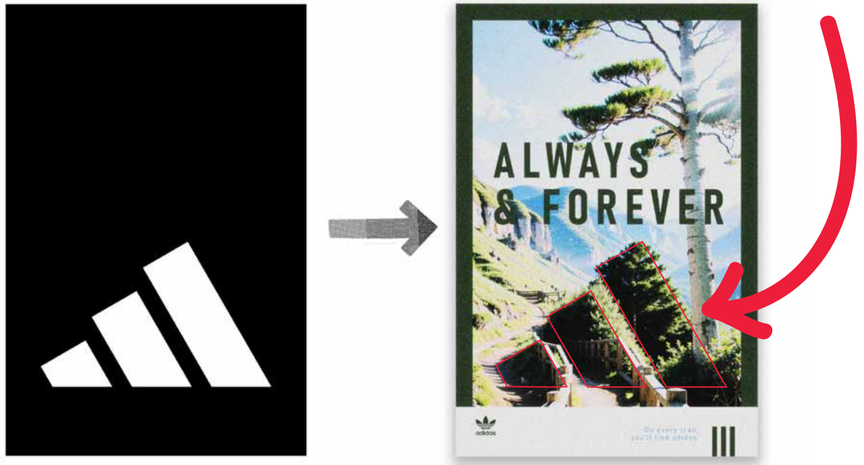

Combined with traditional art direction, retouching and 3D tools such as Unreal Engine, I can develop campaign concepts, product imagery and environments without waiting for a conventional production pipeline.

A speculative Adidas trail-running campaign exploring the idea that the brand is already embedded in the landscape: On every trail, you'll find Adidas.

AI allowed the initial visual metaphor to move almost immediately from sketch to near-finished campaign imagery, making experimentation part of the art-direction process rather than something that happens after it.

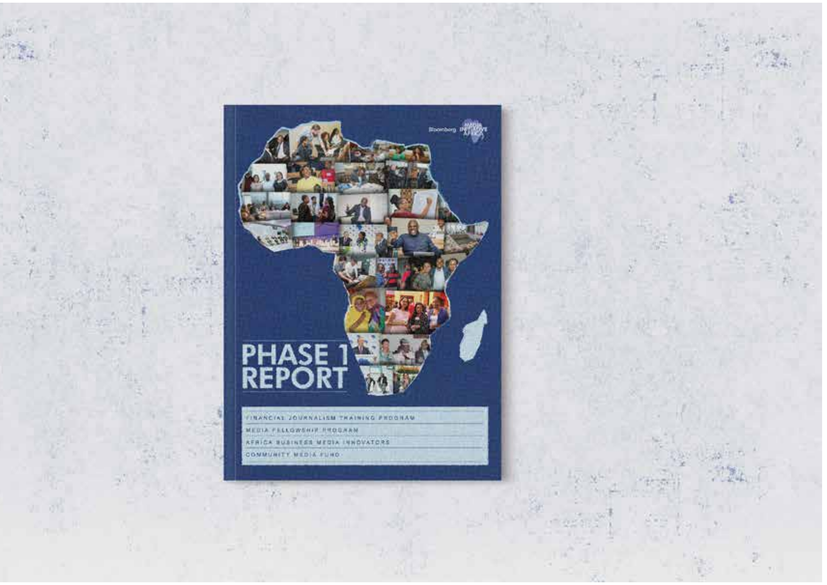

Combining AI image generation, graphic design and 3D product visualization, this product shot is a photo realistic render, everything is quickly staged in Unreal engine 5, where stills and video can be quickly rendered, and after feedback can be quickly adjusted until perfected. Unlike traditional photography, where a re-shoot can be a costly mistake. Using 3D to "shoot" products and visualizations is a quick digital process where any environment can be created.

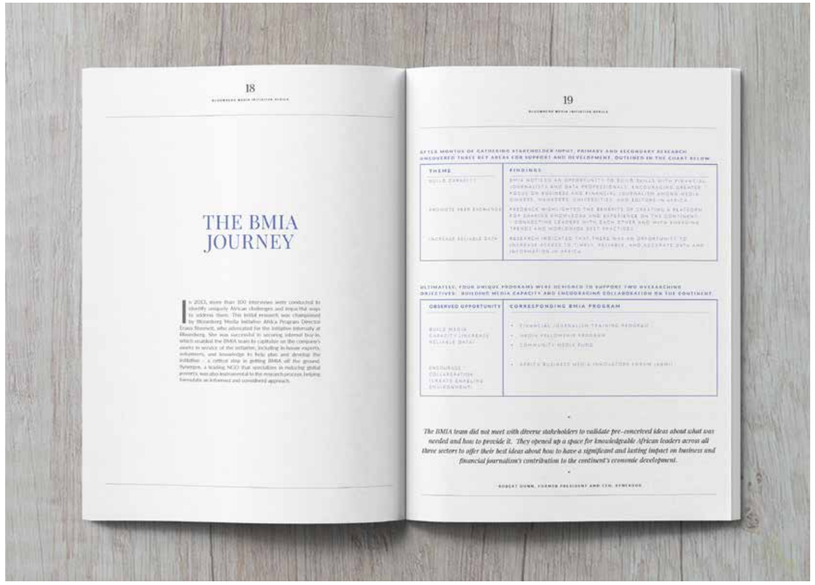

"ON EVERY TRAIL, YOU'LL FIND ADIDAS."

BLOOMBERG

LAYOUT / PUBLISHING / LLUSTRATION

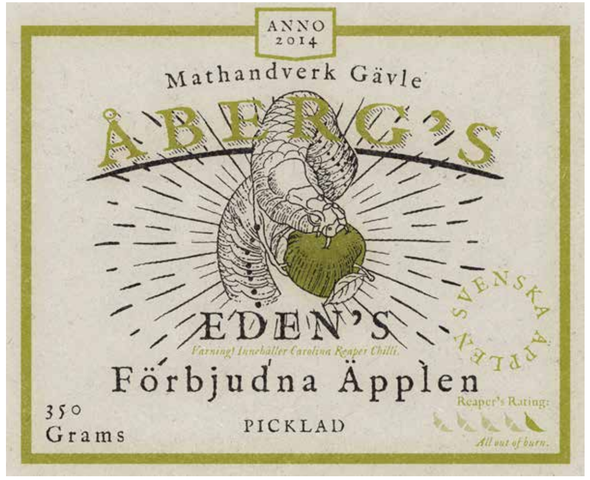

USA

Complex subjects need clear design.

For this Bloomberg Media report on African business and investment, I developed editorial layouts, information graphics and illustration within a disciplined typographic system. Strong grids and generous space gave dense financial content room to breathe, while colour, imagery and regional references brought energy and humanity to the data.

The brand aesthetic blends historical illustrations, and folklore. Combining traditional swedish mythology and folk beliefs and a touch of medievel superstition.

ÅBERGS MATHANDVERK

ART DIRECTION / PACKAGING / 3D VISUALIZATION / COPY WRITING / ILLUSTRATION

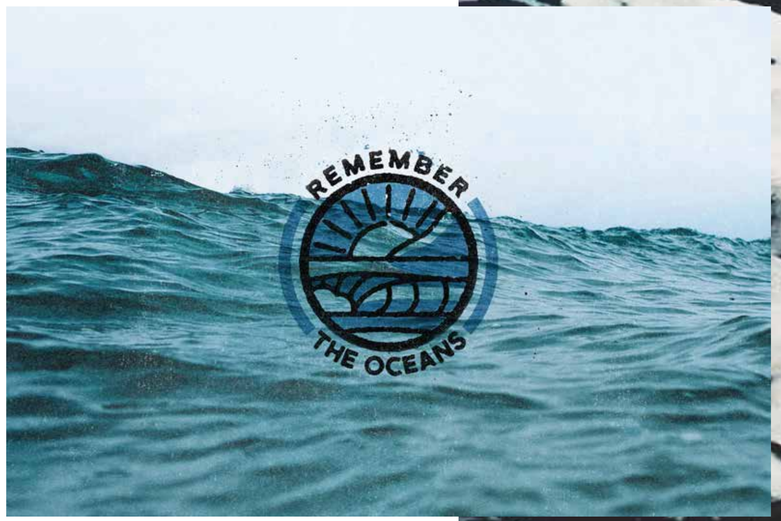

SWEDEN

Small-batch chilli sauce, Swedish folklore and just enough medieval superstition.

Åbergs already had wonderfully eccentric product names, so I built the identity around them. Woodcut-inspired illustrations, old apothecary references and a restrained packaging system give each sauce its own character while keeping the range unmistakably Åbergs. Different colours make the system easy to expand as new products appear.

EDGE RIDERS + AIRBORNE

ART DIRECTION / ILLUSTRATION / BRANDING

UK

Two sister brands, one visual language. Edge Riders sells the equipment; Airborne teaches people how to use it.

I created a shared graphic system that connected both businesses while leaving enough distinction for each to develop its own personality. Illustration, typography and a common set of visual cues helped turn two companies into one recognisable family.

3D VISUALIZATION

PRODUCT / PACKAGING / REAL ESTATE

SWEDEN

Moving to Gotland meant rebuilding a client base from scratch. I saw an opportunity in architectural visualisation, taught myself the tools and began approaching local studios.

My background in photography gave me a useful advantage: I approached 3D imagery like a photographer, thinking about light, composition, atmosphere and the small imperfections that make an image believable. That work has since expanded into interiors, products and packaging.

OPTIMA DEVELOPMENTS

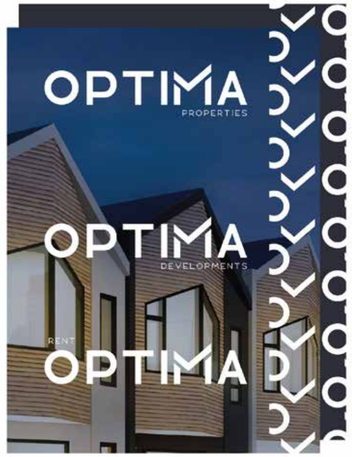

ART DIRECTION / BRANDING / EDITORIAL / LOGO / BRAND DIRECTION / WEB

CANADA

Optima needed to make property development feel more accessible without sacrificing aspiration. I built the identity around the idea of affordable luxury; clean, optimistic and deliberately uncomplicated.

The project grew from a new logo and visual system into a complete WordPress property platform, including user accounts, a searchable property database and Google Maps integration.

A LITTLE MORE ABOUT ME

I grew up in Cape Town, where the wind blows hard enough to fill your mouth with salt. Somewhere between the sea, street art and art school, I fell in love with making things.

More than twenty years later, that hasn't really changed.

I've worked across branding, publishing, illustration, photography, motion, 3D and digital design, but I've never been particularly interested in staying inside one discipline. Curiosity usually gets the better of me.

These days I'm just as happy experimenting with AI and 3D printing as I am getting ink on my hands.

I live and work on Gotland, Sweden.
